Chapter 1 by GeneralSh

{Recording 1.0 of James Luke Bradson, at the InWood forest.

Hmm... This is an interesting case. When I arrived here two days ago, I had expected the case to have little to no obvious leads. But they seem to be everywhere. The car the four passengers were in is ripped open, and tossed against a tree. There's blood everywhere. Whatever did this was a very messy eater. But I see footprints leading further down the road. At least one of the campers made it out alive.}

{This is anomalous. I've found a giant complex, built into the largest tree i've ever seen. How did the park managers miss this? It definitely wasn't in the briefing. The door to the building is torn open, so the passenger was inside and the thing that killed the rest came after him. I've found a note just inside the door. I'll read it out.}

It was never supposed to be like this. Just a weekend in the new National Park InWood. No one was supposed to die.

But they did. My friends. My Mother. All butchered by those... Things. Giant, bloodthirsty monsters with arms like tree trunks and claws like swords. They tore the car to shreds and cleaved them. I can still hear Jessica screaming. They're eating her alive... as I write this.

I found a place, a manor or something. I can hear more noises, but I can barely move. I'm so scared.

To whoever reads this, I will leave notes from my journal when I can. If... If I don't make it then ma-

{the paper was found with specks of (coffee?) stains on it, and appeared to have been torn out in a hurry. Footsteps lead further into the complex. Will be pursuing later.}
